

THE IMPORTANCE OF MOTIVATION IN TEACHING READING SKILL AMONG TEENAGERS

Khodjjeva Zumrad Maxmudjonovna

Scientific supervisor

Xolmurodova Sarvinoz Furqat qizi

Student of SamSIFL

Abstract: The article reports the importance of motivation in learning foreign languages among Uzbek youngsters while revealing the reasons of their interests. It also comes forward with some useful suggestions of being driven for improving reading skills of teenagers.

Keywords: motivation, reading skill, Miracle worker

It is true that learning foreign languages and going abroad is being popular in many countries. Learning foreign languages without any difficulties is dream for everyone. When someone asks them the reason of selecting this language, they tell English language is easy to learn. However, everything is not such trouble free in English. This article explores some problematic aspects of learning foreign languages and provides suggestion to deal with them.

To begin with learning English language and taking IELTS certificate is being famous. People want to live in luxury condition in foreign country. So, the key for opening door of overseas countries is knowing foreign language. Nowadays teenagers are preparing to go abroad at high rate by their power of preference. During their preparation they need power and motivation for language, especially in reading section of IELTS exam. Main reason for this is reading passages which can be very boring for candidates. In that time they should encourage themselves in order to answer the questions. Motivation can inspire humanity to do something. It is also strong power of working quality. Motivation encompasses the biological, emotional, social, and cognitive impacts that trigger human behavior. Motivation can be achieved by amateuring for someone and listening their speech, advice. If something is done by motivation, the results will be satisfactory.

Moreover, there are some books for improving motivation for life and study. For example, The Miracle worker by William Gibson and so on. “The Miracle worker” shows life of little girl, Helen, who is deaf and blind. When she had a high fever, which led to her complete blindness and deafness; the doctor said she had acute congestion of the stomach and brain. Consequently, she became sightless and hearing-impaired. Additionally, it describes a teacher Mrs Sullivan who is very patient while teaching dead soul girl. She is described as a miracle worker in this book. In my opinion everyone should read this book in order to achieve good results. Because it is possible to teach even totally disabled person. There is concrete evidence in “The miracle worker”. The book can be an impulse for learning foreign languages.

It is easy to do something with motivation and hope. When someone or something encourages you, you have a desire to solve your work easily. Motivation is also connected with learning foreign language and also in reading passages. This book enables a reader to be grateful to the things one possesses.

REFERENCES:

1. Cherry, K. (2023, May 03) Motivation: The Driving Force Behind Our Actions. Verywellmind. <https://www.verywellmind.com/what-is-motivation-2795378>. 2023
2. Gibson W. Miracle Worker. Pocket Books. 2002
3. Khodjieva, Z. Language planning and objectives. Journal of educational discoveries and lifelong learning, V.2(5) 2021
4. Reeve, J. (2015). Understanding motivation and emotion (6th ed.). Hoboken. ISBN: Paperback 978-1-118-51779-6, E-text 978-1-118-80456-8.
5. Souders, B. (2019, November 05). What is Motivation? A Psychologist Explains. <https://positivepsychology.com/what-is-motivation/>